Loving tribute to 'kind and cheeky' Bradley

Family devastated after notorious junction near
West Wrating
claims another life

BY NICK KOSTOV

TWO distraught brothers have paid a moving tribute to their "kind and cheeky" brother who died following a car crash.

Bradley Gamble, 20, was driving his Honda Civic when it was in collision with a Peugeot van at the junction of Common Road and The Common, near West Wrating, just after 9pm last Friday.

Bradley, who lived in Haverhill, died from his injuries at Addenbrooke's Hospital the next day.

His brothers Daniel, 23, and Mitchell, 21, have been left devastated by his death.

A memorial of flowers and signed shirts has been left at the scene of the crash by his friends and family.

Daniel said the shirts were there because his brother "loved to go down to Bar-Vu and pretend it was his birthday.

"He would do that eight or nine times a year and get everyone to sign his shirt.

"He liked being a clown and making people laugh, he had a very good sense of humour."

The brothers said Bradley would go out of his way to make the people around him happy.

When he got his first ever pay cheque, Bradley took his sister, Kayleigh, 17, to Cambridge and spent more than £200 on her.

Daniel said: "He was great at doing little acts of kindness. He would never draw attention to them. He would just come in, put something down in front of you, and walk off."

Daniel said he heard about the crash first thing on Saturday morning and rushed straight to Addenbrooke's Hospital.

"I couldn't bring myself to say much but I told him I loved him and I hoped he would pull through. He was unconscious so I don't know if he heard me.

"Around 12.30pm he'd started changing colour. His blood pressure was getting lower and he was going white," he said.

The family were keen to pay tributes to the doctors at Addenbrooke's.

He came very close to death three times before finally succumbing to his injuries on Saturday afternoon.

Bradley was a web developer at a company in Newmarket and enjoyed playing with gadgets.

The family plan to honour Bradley by setting off Chinese lanterns in Haverhill.

Just last month, 47-year-old Dean Cork, of Gainsborough Road, Haverhill, died after his scooter collided with a van.

Two improvised memorials for the men now face each other from opposite corners of the junction.

Liz Drury, who lives at Weston Woods Farm, next to the junction, said people drive too fast past the junction.

She said: "So many people I know have had near misses.

"We don't want any more innocent people getting killed, it's so sad, there is a give way sign but it's not clear."

"They were trying to resuscitate

SAVE OUR CAMPSITE: Scouts pictured at the site in Little Abington, with MP Julian Huppert when he visited them recently

Villagers united in bid to buy campsite

CAMPAIGNERS against the sale of Little Abington Campsite are to mount an extraordinary bid to buy the site – estimated to cost around £400,000.

The campaigning groups – which includes Friends of Abington Campsite, the parish council, the local Scout group, and concerned parents, met for two hours last night to come up with a strategy to save the much-loved seven-acre site which is used by schoolchildren as well as Cubs, Beavers and Scouts.

A deal was agreed in principle to get behind Abington Parish Council's attempt to buy the site using the community right-to-buy scheme, which gives groups a period of six months to bid for the site before it can be sold on the open market.

Although Scout chiefs in Cambridgeshire who took the decision to sell the site are expected to challenge the use of the scheme, Peter Brunning, chairman of the parish council, is confident it can be used in this context.

A number of villagers in Cambridgeshire are currently using the scheme to buy their local pub, in an attempt to fend off developers.

BY NICK KOSTOV

The sale of the campsite had been expected to go through in July but the bid may delay this by some weeks.

If successful, campaigners will have until November to raise the cash for a bid – and Mr Brunning estimates they need £400,000.

"It's a tall order but we are optimistic we would somehow be able to do it," he added.

Over 100 people attended a meeting at the Great Abington Institute last week, where local businessman Nick Hindley argued the site was financially viable.

He told the meeting how the campsite could generate £178,000 profit if it was used for just 60 days of the year, mostly by hosting corporate events.

His business plan also includes interest payments in the event the campaigners would need to borrow £500,000 to buy the site.

County Scout executives in Cambridge decided to sell the site to raise funds in February, with planning permission for residential development already acquired.

They said the site was "underused and poorly maintained" and that it would cost £500,000 to keep it running.

But protesters have dismissed this as "nonsense" and put the cost of regenerating the site – which has been profitable for each of the past five years – closer to £50,000.

The two sides are yet to hold a face-to-face meeting to discuss the best way forward for the campsite but Reg Cullum, spokesperson for the Friends of Abington group, expects a meeting to take place in the next few days.

The campaign to save the Scout campsite was recently backed by Cambridge MP Julian Huppert, himself a former Cambridge scout, who said a night under canvas was a "highly rewarding experience" for youngsters.

A petition opposing the closure of the campsite, open since 1933, had attracted more than 1,850 signatures at the time of writing.

the man from the first crash in the helicopter this time I felt horrible."

The junction has become so notorious that Susan Norvall, an employee at Powerwise which is based nearby, said she now arrives for work 45 minutes early every day to avoid the traffic.

"It's a very straight road, people don't realise there's a junction coming," she said.

Cambridgeshire County Council confirmed that since 2010, there have been four accidents classed as "serious" at the junction, with two fatal crashes in the last month.

The driver of the other vehicle in Friday's crash, a 33-year-old man from Haverhill, and his passenger, a 26-year-old man also from Haverhill, were taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital with serious injuries.

Our horror over appeal by man who beheaded Chris

This has just put us back in the hole we were just starting to come out of. I am just furious that we have been put through this. This has been awful for the whole family

– Sue Varian, pictured above with husband Nigel, on the appeal launched by Jonathan Limani, right

THE parents of a pub landlord who was brutally beheaded have told of their horror and outrage after their son's killer launched an appeal.

Albanian Jonathan Limani, 36, was jailed for life for sawing off the head of Chris Varian with a cheese knife.

The 32-year-old, who once ran the Dog & Duck in Linton's High Street, was killed by the immigrant, who was allowed to move to Britain despite five years of violent and psychotic behaviour in Sweden and Switzerland.

Last week, he failed to convince top judges his minimum jail term was too long.

Chris's father, Nigel Varian, 66, and his wife Sue, 63, who now live in France but are from the Cambridge area, are furious the appeal was even heard.

Mr Varian said: "We feel real outrage the defence decided to take this on. This appeal should never have come to court. It was all based on a technicality that the original minimum sentence was wrong.

"It is a disgrace we have been put through this. We have to live with the horror every day of the image of our son being decapitated. They even brought Limani to the court and we had to face him again. This was all on legal aid. It just seems that he is milking the system – and what for? A day out of jail."

A distraught Mrs Varian said: "This has just put us back in the hole we were just starting to come out of. I am just furious that we have been put through this. This has been awful for the whole family."

Schizophrenic Limani attacked Mr Varian at the Oxfordshire hotel and golf club where they worked in August 2010.

The Serbian-born killer admitted manslaughter due to diminished responsibility at Oxford Crown Court in March last year and was jailed for life.

Limani, formerly of Milton Lane, Thame, was ordered to serve a minimum of 19 years before applying for parole.

He appealed, but after the hearing, Lady Justice Rafferty said there was nothing wrong with such a term for the gruesome killing.

Members of staff came upon the bloody scene and thought Limani was trying to resuscitate the injured Mr Varian, who lived in Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire.

"He was not," said the appeal judge. "With a cheese knife he had earlier equipped himself with, he was sawing through Mr Varian's neck. He entirely decapitated him."

Lady Justice Rafferty referred to a victim impact statement from Mrs Varian, who wrote of her "raw, raw grief", which could never be taken away.

"How is it possible to describe the suffering when your first-born son has been murdered in such a barbaric way?" she wrote.

Lady Justice Rafferty said: "This was not simply a knife carried from two floors further up on the same day, it was a cheese knife used with brutality and determination completely to decapitate."

VICTIM: Chris Varian, who used to run the Dog & Duck in Linton's High Street, was killed by Limani, above. Limani was allowed to move to Britain despite five years of violent behaviour in Sweden and Switzerland.

Mayor drives car into Tesco Express

BY NICK KOSTOV

THIS was probably not the start the new mayor of St Edmundsbury would have wanted.

In just his fifth day in office, Terry Buckle, 73, drove his car straight through the doors of a Tesco Express.

In a quite extraordinary scene, it is believed the car lurched forward from a parking bay, with the new Mayor at the wheel.

Rather than hitting the wall, the Vauxhall Vectra went straight through the automatic doors which duly opened to let him through.

Mr Buckle said: "We've now got a drive through."

"I hit the stand with the coke bottles and I couldn't see the front of my car because they all fell on top of it."

The incident happened around 4.30pm on Tuesday and luckily no-one was hurt, with only minor damage to the shop and the car.

Mr Buckle was taken to West Suffolk Hospital as a precaution, with his temperature rising 3C due to shock.

He said he wouldn't be driving again. "If somebody had been coming through that door it would have been a very different situation, there were some children at the back getting their sweets," he said.

"I approached the parking space in first gear and all of a sudden the car just shot forward."

"Watching the video of the incident I can't believe it was me, we're still not sure what happened."

A crowd of people gathered at the shop, in Moreton Hall, Bury St Edmunds, to watch security services remove the car from the shop.

The leader of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, Cllr John Griffiths, said: "When I said I hoped the Mayoral year would start with a bang, this has certainly exceeded my expectations. Of course the important thing is that all those involved are OK."

Man guilty of stealing computers from school

A MAN has admitted stealing computer equipment from a school in Clare.

Alexander Hazel, 22, appeared at Ipswich Crown Court last week where he pleaded guilty to an offence of burglary.

The break-in at the Stour Valley Community School in Cavendish

Road on August 23 last year resulted in six laptop computers used by pupils being stolen by Hazel.

A second man, Darren Oakley, 21, of Felixstowe, appeared at the same court hearing and pleaded guilty to an offence of handling stolen computers from the school on the same date.

Hazel and Oakley will be sentenced on June 3.

Judge John Devaux, granted the men bail until their next court appearance.

He added that all sentencing options would be open to the court.

TRI AND CATCH ME: Glen Bradley, 25, and his mother-in-law Denise Garnham, 49, are gearing up for the Tear Jerker Triathlon on Sunday, May 26

Family effort for their first triathlon

TRAINING for your first triathlon with your mother-in-law may not sound like the perfect situation.

But Glen Bradley, 25, and Denise Garnham, 49, who both work at Haverhill Leisure Centre, insist it is in fact a lot of fun.

The pair have been training for weeks to take part in the gruelling Elveden Estate's Tear Jerker Triathlon.

The event is billed as the toughest triathlon in the region and is named to reflect both the trying nature of the course and Elveden's position as a leading onion grower.

Athletes must complete a 750m swim in the reservoir, 25km mountain bike ride through the sandy Breckland soils and a 5km run through the forest.

For Glen, who is married to Denise's daughter Sally, training for the event was an interesting way to get to know his mother-in-law better.

He said: "The nice bit about training is if you're swimming together in the pool you don't have to talk."

"No, seriously we get on really well and we have been working together at the Centre for three years so we are a really good team."

Denise and Glen, both of Haverhill, hope to complete the triathlon in two-and-a-half to three hours and their family will be there to cheer them on. They have been training particularly hard in the pool – as that is their weakest leg.

The triathlon is in aid of the East Anglian Air Ambulance this year, and Glen will also be raising money for the Mental Health Foundation in honour of his grandfather who suffers from Alzheimers Disease.

Plan for 874 solar panels for farm field

NICK KOSTOV

With energy costs rocketing, people around the region are using different ways to meet their energy needs.

This week, the owners of Weston Woods Farm, in West Watting, have put in a planning application to South Cambridgeshire district council to cover one of their fields with 874 solar panels.

Andrew Crossley, manager of the farm, said escalating energy costs meant this scheme would reduce his energy bill.

He added: "Utility costs when you buy from the grid are escalating."

"This will definitely save us money."

The panels would be slightly raised, allowing sheep to continue grazing around and under them.

The electricity produced would then be used to power the farm's main grain store rather than being fed into the national grid.

Mr Crossley said: "We're generating electricity from a source that is sustainable."

"Most of the electricity from the national grid is generated by burning fossil fuels."

The owners say the field of panels would be hidden by the side of the grain store and would not be visible from the roads.

They add that keeping the field as part of the grazing rotation for sheep means no land is taken away from food production.

If no objections are registered – and there has been no adverse reaction to date – the field of solar panels is expected to be built in July.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Are you in favour of solar panels as a sustainable energy source?
Or are they a blot on the landscape?

Man to appeal sentence for harrasing pharmacy woman

A MAN found guilty of harrasing a woman will be appealing against his sentence.

Nigel Proctor, of Gorton Road, Haverhill, avoided prison when he was found guilty at West Suffolk Magistrates Court on April 21 of harrasing Kelly Shurety.

Magistrates handed Proctor a six week prison sentence, suspended for twelve months, and an indefinite restraining order.

But the 44-year-old has now launched an appeal against his sentence which will be heard by the Ipswich Crown Court on August 16.

Police found a rope, a hammer, masking tape, an 8in kitchen knife, dumbbells and bin bags when they searched Proctor's car.

A pair of binoculars were also found in the glove compartment.

The court heard how Proctor appeared around 15 times at the pharmacy where Mrs Shurety works between September and December 2012.

The victim also said she spotted him sitting in his car near her home.

Proctor was given an indefinite restraining order by the court not to go near the pharmacy or Mrs Shurety's home.

Have you thought about helping yourself?

YOU have printed a number of stories regarding people on benefits living in council accommodation.

These people are complaining that their accommodation is not good enough for them, or that they are having to pay some contribution towards council tax.. etc.

I would like to remind these people who think the government and local organisations are not doing enough to help them that there is an alternative.... they could help themselves.

They could go out to work and earn their money and with this freedom they would be able to rent or buy a house to suit their needs of any size they wish in any location.

They are not the ones who have it hard, the people who do work are left footing the bill through taxes.

Quite often, I imagine workers are not much better off than people claiming benefits.

I wish that they would appreciate the help they receive and appreciate it should be for a period of time to help them in their situation, and not a right.

lot is said and so I was surprised and a bit shocked by some of the stories that were being told there; people having problems with loved ones with mental health issues not getting the right support; young teenagers with drug dependency not being able to access the correct services; elderly people getting a raw deal because they do not shout loud enough etc. Our vulnerable did not cause the recession but are sure paying for it!

I know that west Suffolk CCG have only just begun their work but they need to get up to speed very quickly. There seems to be a pattern developing on all things revolving around the town: we have a high street that is pretty much the same as it was in 1975 when we had half the population; roads that are not fit for purpose; we are just about to get the plans signed off for another 2,500 houses with no real infrastructure upgrades; the St Edmundsbury Vision 2031 document offers no real vision, only another dose of what has gone on before for the last 50 years.

We have a lot of highly paid people that are supposed to be looking after the interests of Haverhill from our MP down. I think it's about time that everyone involved in the running of the town stepped up to the plate, got things moving without any excuses and delivered on our health needs, high street and transport etc... and that's just for starters.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE FOR FRANCIS: There will be a Thanksgiving Service for the life and ministry of Canon Francis Woolley at Holy Trinity Church at 3pm on Saturday.

The preacher will be the Revd Dr Michael Banner, Dean and Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. Everyone from the four parishes of Balsham, West Wickham, West Wrating and Weston Colville is invited to come and join with members of Canon Woolley's family to give thanks for the years of service given to them by Canon Woolley. May he rest in peace and rise in glory. There will be refreshments after the service in the Church Institute.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY: Photography of The Natural World was the subject for the last meeting of the present season of meetings. Kevin Sawford fired members with inspiration when he showed his amazing photographs. Kevin has his own photography business as well as running photography workshops for the Suffolk Wildlife Trust. He mainly loves to take photographs in and around his local environment near Thetford.

He also showed lovely pictures of red squirrels and puffins from the north of the country, then across the globe to see other wildlife wonders such as Romanian bears and Indian tigers.

Kevin's enthusiasm was very evident and infectious and with his beautiful photographs, hopefully inspired everyone to get out and find those photographs for the coming competition at the Annual Flower & Produce Show on Saturday July 27 for which Show Schedules are now available at the Post Office. CONGRATULATIONS to Sally Howard who successfully completed the 26 mile Brighton Marathon on 14 April, raising more than £1000 for the RSPCA.

THE BLACK BULL: Congratulations to the team who won two awards in the national Publican's Morning Advertiser Top 50 Gastropubs Awards 2013. They came second in both the Pie category and across all categories for their Business Innovation.

Over £700 was raised for CamSight at their Dining In The Black event, for which there was a great turnout. The pub wishes to thank their suppliers for supporting this event with their sponsorship.

PARIS TO NICE BIKE RIDE: Stephen Burbridge, with two other people, started a sponsored bike ride from Paris on Sunday May 19 which will finish in Nice on Sunday May 26.

They will be raising money for Red2Green for disabled and disadvantaged adults who are on the Autistic Spectrum and CLAPA (Cleft Lip and Palate Association). The group is completely self-funded, therefore all the money raised goes directly to their two charities. There is a sponsor form at Weston Colville Post Office.

VILLAGE LENDING LIBRARY: There is a plan to set up a small lending library based in St Mary's Church, for use by the village. It will work on a basis of borrow one, return it and borrow another.

A Bookcase is needed so if you have a medium-sized bookcase in reasonable condition to donate and/or books/paperbacks to start the collection off please contact Bridget Durham 01223 290082.

Slimmers donate unwanted clothes

SLIMMERS spring-cleaned their closets and donated the clothes that no longer fit their new figures to a good cause.

Members of the Slimming World groups in Haverhill, Saffron Walden, Linton, Fulbourn, Sawston and Duxford dropped pounds and bagged up all the clothes they've slimmed out of to raise money for Cancer Research UK.

The bags were collected at the New Croft in Chalkstone Way, Haverhill – and each one could raise up to £25 for the charity.

Slimming World consultant and team developer Tania Watson said: "Members in our groups have lost 1,357 stone since January this year and they're feeling fantastic."

"Lots of people have dropped down clothes sizes and their wardrobes are full of clothes that are too big and baggy now – they're happy to give them away because they're never going to need them again."

B2B exhibition set to take off at new venue

IT'S back – and it promises to be bigger and better than ever before.

The Cambridge B2B Exhibition, which has grown in popularity year on year, is officially launched, with the date set as Wednesday, September 18. And this year there will be a new venue – Cambridge Airport.

Organised by the Cambridge News and Cambridgeshire Chambers of Commerce, the exhibition also has three major sponsors this year – The Cambridge Building Society, Januarys and Borney Display Solutions.

Booking is now open for stands at the exhibition. Cambridge News events manager Tom Bircham said: "The Cambridge B2B exhibition is a unique opportunity to be one of more than 100 exhibitors, who come together under one roof to showcase their products and services."

Katy Bignell, marketing officer at The Cambridge, said: "This will be the third year

The Cambridge has sponsored the B2B exhibition. It's a great place for like-minded Cambridge businesses to come together.

"This is fast becoming one of the biggest exhibitions in Cambridgeshire and I would urge businesses to book a stand early to ensure that they don't miss out."

Cambridge Airport's head of business and route development David Surley said: "Cambridge Airport is thrilled to be hosting the B2B Exhibition for the very first time. The airport is quite familiar with hosting exhibitions and events – we have an easily accessible location – so bringing the B2B event to a venue so close to the city itself is something we're delighted to be part of. At this time, it is the businesses of Cambridge and surrounding region that are making this area such a vibrant economy and the fastest growing city in the UK.

"The businesses of this area have a lot to shout about and are making a difference at a national level, so being a part of B2B in 2013 is a really big deal for us."

Stands cost £275 plus VAT for Chamber of Commerce members, and £325 for non-chamber members. More information about booking a stand is available at www.cambridgeshirechamber.co.uk or by contacting k.dawson@cambscci.co.uk or calling (01223) 209808.

Tandoori restaurant through to cup final

HAVERHILL Tandoori on Queen's Street is through to the regional final of the Tiffin Cup, the national competition to find the best South Asian restaurant.

Each year, MPs up and down the country nominate one South Asian restaurant in their constituency for the award.

Over the next two months, mystery diners will eat at each of the nominated restaurants – including the Haverhill Tandoori – and score them on location, food, ambience, decor and service. The finalists will then fight it out at the Houses of Parliament on July 2.

Owner Mukul Hoque said Mr Hancock had eaten at the restaurant before and that "he must have liked it".

Former landlady joins team at TGA

NICK KOSTOV

A FORMER pub landlady has been appointed retail development manager at TGA Mobility as the company bids to develop its links with the community.

Rachel Elding, 31, of Haverhill, spent four years as landlady of The Barnardiston Arms in Kedington.

During her time as licensee, the mother-of-two was known for being proactive in developing a strong community spirit.

But when her tenancy came to an end, Rachel decided she needed a new challenge.

She said she had enjoyed getting involved with the community in Kedington and was keen to continue community work in her job.

As someone who has several family members who use mobility equipment, she jumped at the chance to join TGA Mobility when the opportunity presented itself.

Rachel and her team of specialists advise customers on a range that includes walking sticks and wheelchairs through to stairlifts, rise and recliner chairs and mobility scooters.

She said: "I personally have several family members who need mobility equipment to maintain independence and I am familiar with the remarkable difference mobility products can make. "Running the pub was pretty much a 24/7 job so I am used to hard work and this busy position is right up my street."

TGA Mobility has a showroom in Sudbury and provides mobility equipment to customers worldwide.

Shop locally, is the message behind week-long campaign

BUSINESSES in Haverhill are getting behind a campaign to urge people to shop locally.

The Haverhill Buy Local Week, which runs from Monday, June 3 to Sunday June 9, encourages shoppers to "do more for Haverhill".

Campaign coordinator Elaine Carr said the initiative would help local shops and suppliers during these difficult economic times. She said: "We have some fantastic shops and businesses in Haverhill."

"It is vitally important that we actually use them – in this climate it really is a case of use them or lose them."

West Suffolk MP and Minister for Skills Matthew Hancock has given his backing to the campaign.

He said: "More than half of the money spent in small retailers and restaurants gets returned to the local economy which benefits everyone."

"Haverhill has loads of great businesses and I would encourage everyone to take a minute next time they go shopping to consider local alternatives for the weekly shop or evening out".

Pictures: Keith Mindham

Marilyn pink hair-do wins Jade her first award

THE theme of the contest was 1963 – and there's more than a hint of Marilyn Monroe to the finished product.

The stunning hairstyle secured Jade Hammond, 18, who works at D'n'A Hair Studio, in Haverhill, her first hairdressing award.

Jade was named Apprentice of the Year at West Suffolk College's annual Festival of Hair and Beauty.

She was up against 15 other apprentices and said all her research into 1960s hairstyles really paid off.

Jade is the first apprentice to be taken on by D'n'A Hair Studio since it opened 14 months ago.

Her model, Aimee Lee, 24, of Osprey Road, Haverhill, is the studio's assistant manager.

She said Jade was particularly talented and picked everything up very quickly.

She said: "She's going to be a very good hairdresser, we really enjoyed the competition."

County leads the way on new traffic courts

TRAFFIC courts trialled in Suffolk are to be rolled out across the county.

Justice Minister Damian Green announced on Friday the courts, which deal with low-level road traffic offences, will be set up in areas all over the UK to help the criminal justice system deal with these cases more effectively.

The dedicated courts have been trialled in nine path-finder regions, including Suffolk, since August 2012 and each area decided how often motoring offences are heard to meet the needs of the region.

Justice Minister Damian Green said: "Enforcing traffic laws is hugely important for road safety, and saving lives. However these cases take nearly six months on average from offence to completion, despite the fact that over 90 per cent of cases result in a guilty plea or are proved in absence – this is simply unacceptable.

"The justice system must respond more quickly and effectively to the needs of victims, witnesses and local communities and these dedicated courts will enable magistrates to better organise their work and drive greater efficiency."

There are around half a million summary motoring cases heard every year including speeding, traffic light and document offences.

The Ministry of Justice is looking to change the way these offences are dealt with as they often take longer from offence to completion than much more serious cases.

Chief Con Chris Eyre, of the Association of Chief Police Officers, said: "We have implemented this new procedure to traffic cases with great success in nine police forces, radically simplifying and speeding up the process.

The government will consult the judiciary on the matter.

Are you in favour of the new traffic courts?

Council appoints new transport chief

THE new Suffolk County Council cabinet will be announced today. And there's more good news for supporters of pedestrianisation as the much maligned Cllr Guy MacGregor, former cabinet member for roads and transport, will be moved out of the role.

Cllr MacGregor was hounded out of a meeting at the Arts Centre in March after telling residents they could not have pedestrianisation.

Some of those in attendance felt the councillor was unwilling to listen to their concerns and branded him "arrogant".

Instead, Cllr McGregor, who is in favour of shared space rather than pedestrianisation of Haverhill's High Street, will now take on the role of chairman of the council.

Council leader Cllr Mark Bee will confirm Cllr Graham Newman as the new transport chief.

ALL CHANGE: Vanessa would eat to cheer herself up

Mum finds way to slim herself better

EXPLORING the wonders of Disney World, Florida, Vanessa Abraham and her family were on the trip of a lifetime. After months of planning and saving, the family were finally there, but tipping the scales at a hefty 17-and-a-half stone, and suffering from the progressive muscle wastage disorder Charcot Marie Tooth (CMT), the holiday was proving more of a challenge than a pleasure for the morbidly obese mum-of-two.

"Originally that holiday was the reason why I bought my walker with a seat and hired a scooter as it was the only way I was going to be able to get around, but now it's the best thing I've ever done," she explains. "People probably thought it was because of my weight as there are so many overweight people in America, but I actually felt like Kate Moss over there. Fat or otherwise, I physically couldn't get around because of the CMT."

Charcot Marie Tooth is a neurological disorder affecting muscle tissue across the body, for which there is currently no cure. The disease delays signals from the brain to the peripheral nerves causing muscle wastage and deformities, mainly in the feet, lower legs, fingers, hands and forearms.

Vanessa, 47, was diagnosed with CMT in 2008, but looking back believes it has always been a part of her life. "I always knew there was something wrong because I've always had to look where I put my feet," she explains.

"When I was in my 20s I was going to exercise classes and I wasn't able to keep up with everyone and used to trip over my feet. I remember being pregnant with my son, James, and just falling over in the street one day."

Because of the disease, Vanessa has very little strength in her feet and lower legs and has to wear ankle-foot orthotics (AFO) during the day to help lift her feet off the ground and prevent her toes from curling under and ultimately causing her to fall over.

Declared 'morbidly obese' by doctors – and diagnosed with two life-altering medical conditions – mum Vanessa Abraham decided to slim herself healthy. Louise Martin reports.

"Regardless of the AFOs, you think you've stepped over something but because your dexterity is slightly out it's so easy to fall," says Vanessa. "I've always had to wear flat – and very broad – shoes, while my sister wears really great, trendy shoes. She asked me once if it bothers me that I can't wear those shoes and I just laughed and said 'No, they look awful!' Just looking at them I can feel the pain in my feet."

Like many women, Vanessa put on weight during pregnancy. When she was expecting her daughter, Ellie, now 13, she gained between two and three stone but lost it afterwards through diet and, as her CMT wasn't as advanced at that stage, aerobics classes. But during and after her pregnancy with James, now 10, Vanessa gained a whopping eight stone and didn't lose the weight.

"We moved to Cambourne when Ellie was 3 and I was five weeks off having James," explains Vanessa. "We had decided that I would give up work and be a stay-at-home mum after having James and I think the weight gain was down to a combination of moving house, giving up work, my CMT condition progressing and just feeling quite isolated."

"I struggled quite a bit after the birth and just felt ill – it was like I had lead boots on my feet all the time. I was eating too much and I was lonely, so I would eat to cheer myself up and then I would feel guilty so I would eat more. It was a vicious circle."

Vanessa admits when her diet was at its worst she couldn't visit a petrol station without picking up a calorific treat and if she passed a coffee shop would always call in for a latte and a cake. The mum would eat the leftovers from her children's plates before eventually reaching what she calls 'destruction mode', where she would feel like she had totally ruined any chances of losing weight so would just carry on comfort eating.

Although incurable, Vanessa knew her excess weight was not helping her CMT and in 2011, after undergoing tests at Papworth Respiratory Support and Sleep Centre (RSSC), she was also diagnosed with a mild form of obstructive sleep apnoea. Obesity is the most common cause of sleep apnoea, a condition which causes interrupted breathing during sleep as the muscles and soft tissue in the throat relax and collapse. Because of the condition the mum was prescribed a Constant Positive Airway Pressure (CPAP) machine which enables her to breathe more easily while sleeping.

Vanessa tried various diets to lose weight and each time would lose up to two stone, but would then revert back to her old eating habits and put the weight back on. "I think I felt a bit sorry for myself because of my CMT and obstructive sleep apnoea – I was comfort eating," admits Vanessa. "I didn't look like the person I was before and I didn't act like that either. I didn't feel like wearing nice clothes and my self esteem was very low."

Last June, after a decade of unsuccessful dieting, Vanessa was at her heaviest weight and, with a dangerously

A special souvenir edition packed with images and stories from the day

HAPPY DAYS: Vanessa after shedding the stones. Inset: at her heaviest high BMI of 38.9, was morbidly obese. "I had seen dieticians and was always encouraged to lose weight but I just couldn't get in the zone," says Vanessa. "Overeating is an addiction and for years I had tried to lose weight but I just couldn't do it and would always give up."

But after seeing an advert for the weightloss programme LighterLife, featuring Birds Of A Feather star Pauline Quirke – who shed an incredible eight-and-a-half stone by following the meal replacement plan, Vanessa was inspired to finally do something about her increasing weight. LighterLife combines a liquid diet of around 600 calories a day with a personal support programme that takes a psychological approach.

With the support of her husband Christopher, Vanessa attended her first LighterLife class in Cambridge last June. "I knew straightaway this was the thing that was going to work for me," remembers Vanessa. "I couldn't trust myself around food any more and if it wasn't this then I was thinking it was going to have to be a gastric band."

Vanessa began the liquid diet and swapped her large portions of takeaway and unhealthy snacks for just four liquid packets a day. "People have said to me 'I don't know how you can do it, it can't be healthy'; but in these four packets I'm getting all the vitamins and minerals I need every day, which is more than what I was getting from what I was eating before."

Although Vanessa isn't eating the same meals as her husband and children, she has no problem preparing meals for them and admits the whole family is now eating a healthier diet. "I was so out of control before I joined LighterLife. I couldn't be bothered to cook so we were getting takeaways and that was damaging to my children as I was teaching them bad habits," says Vanessa. "Although I'm not eating the food I'm cooking any more I'm really enjoying it. I like to do my shopping online because 1) it saves my legs and 2) I don't have to look at the things I don't need to look at. I still buy snacks for the children and sometimes I am tempted, but when I'm in the zone the thought of eating them doesn't even enter my head."

Vanessa has lost a whopping five stone since joining LighterLife taking her weight to 12-and-a-half stone and reducing her BMI to 28. She has dropped four dress sizes and is well on her way to reaching her 10-stone target and a healthy BMI of 25 by this June.

"LighterLife will be a part of my life forever if I want it to be – and I do want it to be," says Vanessa. "I feel lighter, happier, and more confident."

Once Vanessa has reached her target weight she will be supported by the LighterLife weight management programme to help her sustain her weightloss and introduce healthy foods back into her diet. Not only has her weightloss improved her outlook, it has dramatically affected her sleep apnoea and Vanessa is expected to be able to stop using the CPAP machine this summer. "The doctors at Papworth have said I am going to slim myself better," she says, beaming. "It turns out that my sleep apnoea was a completely self-inflicted thing and was all down to me being obese."

Vanessa is the happiest she's been in years and credits her weightloss for her new-found self esteem. "Both my children and husband have said how proud they are. Last year in Florida I struggled in the heat but this year we're going on holiday to France and I feel so much happier about the thought of being on the beach that I'm even going to have a bikini! I really do feel like the old Vanessa again."

Vanessa's 'Before' diet
Breakfast: Cereal and toast with butter.
Lunch: Anything.
Dinner: Combination of traditional home-cooked food or takeaways.
Snacks: Chocolate, crisps, cereal late at night, biscuits, sweets, leftovers from her children's plates, treats in terms of food at petrol station or when shopping.

 Vanessa is currently following Food Abstinence Lighter Life Total which is four LighterLife packets a day including the daily Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) required amounts. See lighterlife.com.

Win a pair of cinema tickets

IT'S competition time again for film lovers as Fast & Furious 6 hits the big screen this week.

The movie, starring Vin Diesel as Dominic Toretto, tells the story of a retired professional gang who remain wanted criminals after their successful heist in the previous film.

The group are offered the chance to clear their criminal record by the US authorities in exchange for taking down a skilled mercenary organisation led by former Special Ops soldier Owen Shaw.

In an unexpected twist, Dominic's former lover Letty Ortiz, played by Michelle Rodriguez, returns after being presumed dead.

Just like the other five movies, it should be mayhem on a spectacular scale.

The band of petrol heads led by the likeable Dominic will keep you on the edge of your seat, going through an incredible series of stunts and gun battles set in divine international settings.

Cineworld Haverhill, on Ehringshausen Way, are celebrating the new release by offering one lucky winner a pair of tickets to see the film, plus an exclusive merchandise pack – which includes a T-shirt, a set of headphones and a USB stick.

For your chance to win, simply answer the question which follows.

Entries can be emailed to advertising@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk or dropped off at the Haverhill Weekly News office in Queen Street.

The closing date is Thursday, May 30.

CRITICALLY-acclaimed Yes Prime Minister is coming to Cambridge fresh from three sell-out seasons in the West End.

Cambridge Arts Theatre favourite Michael Fenton Stevens is back as Prime Minister Jim Hacker in the hit comedy, which returns in June as a part of a large UK tour.

The country is on the brink of financial meltdown and the Government's only apparent salvation comes from a morally dubious deal with the Foreign Minister of Kumranistan. Will Jim Hacker and his team of advisors be able to rescue the country from the edge? The original writers of the classic BBC TV series, Antony Jay and Jonathan Lynn, have reunited for this anniversary production. The original series' followed on from the massive success of Yes, Minister and ran from 1986 – 1988, garnering huge critical and popular acclaim.

This latest stage production was adapted into a six-part TV series for UK Gold, starring David Haig, Henry Goodman, Chris Larkin and Zoe Telford.

Principal casting for the new touring run includes Michael Fenton Stevens (recognisable as Sir Henry in ITV's Benidorm and Panto Dame at Cambridge Arts Theatre from 2005 - 2007) as beleaguered PM Jim Hacker and Crispin Redman (known as Judge Richards in Law & Order: UK) as his opposite, Sir Humphrey Appleby. West End star Michael Matus (Taboo, Lend Me A Tenor) performs the role of Principal Private Secretary Bernard Woolley and Indra Ové (Interview with a Vampire, The Fifth Element) plays Claire Sutton, Special Policy Advisor.

The show runs at Cambridge Arts Theatre from Monday June 3 – Saturday June 8 at 7.45pm with a Saturday matinee at 2.30pm. Tickers range from £15 to £30 with a £2.50 booking fee. See cambridgeartstheatre.purchase-tickets-online.co.uk.

(Lady) Hamlet

THE question, according to the Marlow Society, which is putting on a skewed production of a classic, is: what's a girl going to do?

The troupe of am-dram students is reinterpreting Shakespeare's Hamlet with a modern twist and a female lead, as (Lady) Hamlet. See what they did there? Sticking to the society's tradition of reacting against Victorian theatre and reviving Shakespeare's work (and the quality of verse-speaking actors to boot), expect more than a few surprises.

The setting is bleak, the stage stark: it's the end of the Cold War and the 1980s loom as "one young woman finds the most dangerous revolutions start at home". With a dead father, a remarried mother and a murderous uncle on the throne, not to mention a ghost or two, Hamlet must tackle a web of tragedies and dangers to exact her revenge.

Director Niall Wilson explains why he decided to switch Hamlet's gender: "I'm interested in how the dynamics of the piece will change."

"There is a long and storied history of female Hamlets, and more recently of female actors taking on traditionally male Shakespearean roles – Fiona Shaw as Richard II, Pippa Nixon as the Bastard in King John – and it's exciting to enter into this tradition's spirit of making the old modern."

"This production is about seeing the world through young eyes, for better or worse. A middle aged bloke lofting a skull doesn't show that."

film of the week

Epic 3D (U, 102 mins)

BASED on the children's book The Leaf Men And The Brave Good Bugs by William Joyce, Epic is a charming fable that could, with clever parental persuasion, inspire the youngest generation to swap their video games for an invigorating spot of housework.

Chris Wedge's vibrant computer-animated film reveals a long-standing feud between tiny eco-warriors called Leaf Men, who protect Mother Nature and are invisible to humans, and an army of evil-doers called Boggans, who are armed to the sharpened teeth with infectious mould.

In order to protect our parks and forests, and restore sunshine to our gloomy technology-driven society, the dirt and decay must be banished forever.

Seventeen-year-old Mary Katherine (voiced by Amanda Seyfried), who prefers MK for short, reluctantly heads out of the city to stay with her madcap father, Professor Bomba (Jason Sudeikis).

Since the death of his wife, Bomba has thrown himself into his study of the little men, who apparently reside in nearby trees and brooks.

Naturally, MK thinks her father has lost his grip on sanity until she is magically shrunk into this fantastical realm of valiant warriors and talking flora.

MK is taken under the wing of Leaf Men rebel Nod (Josh Hutcherson), whose gung-ho actions disappoint his commanding officer, General Ronin (Colin Farrell).

When the rival army of Boggans led by evil Mandrake (Christopher Waltz) attempts to take over the forest and destroy the Leaf Men and their benevolent leader, Queen Tara (Beyoncé Knowles), Nod and MK stand side by side against the onslaught.

Directed at a brisk pace by Wedge, who previously helmed Ice Age and Robots, Epic is an enchanting journey of discovery that will inspire pangs of nostalgia for parents who fondly remember the 1989 Disney romp Honey, I Shrunk The Kids.

DO AS I SAY, NOT AS I DO: Diarmuid Gavin

YOU would have thought that when he moved to a new house in Wicklow – known as the Garden of Ireland – Diarmuid Gavin, the enfant terrible of the gardening fraternity, would have wasted no time hauling in the diggers, landscaping materials, amazing plants and architectural altars.

Think again. The TV gardening maverick admits that it's easy to talk about garden design, to lecture on it and write books about it, but he developed a fear of it when it came to his own plot.

"I bought a new home, a show house, with a perfectly simple garden – wooden fences, sloped lawn, some scalloped shaped beds to the sides and that was it. But for the life of me, I couldn't decide on a good design which would satisfy the family," he says.

"I made the terrible mistake of ripping out everything that was here in the misguided belief that a clean sweep would provide some clarity. And then I did... nothing... for ages."

The situation became so dire that his local estate agent sheepishly approached and said Gavin was making his job selling properties very difficult because of the state of the garden.

"The ignominy! So, something needed doing. Even then I ran away from the issue. I started work indoors, knocking down walls, repainting and disposing of heavy black curtains."

Ever distracted with other projects, the TV gardener says that his own plot has progressed slowly. "After some years I developed a plan and commissioned a beautiful illustration. Now at least we know what the garden will look like.

"The heavy building work started – a beautiful two-storey veranda now crosses the back of the house allowing for outdoor living

by Hannah Stephenson

on two levels. Freshly planted wisterias are beginning to climb towards the sky, wrapped around reclaimed cast iron pillars. The foundation is in for a small summer house.

"Over Easter I shifted five tonnes of sieved topsoil in readiness for new raised vegetable beds. The big plan is to terrace – lawns, beds and borders.

"However, the big lesson is – don't do it my way. Just do as I say."

Gavin and his family live minutes from the coast. Their garden enjoys a sunny aspect but, like the rest of the country, there is plenty of rain. However, he has ploughed on and has achieved some measure of success in his choice of planting.

"The difficulty in the last few years has been the either freezing or just plain cold winters. I like to battle against the elements and the eichiums that are growing up against the sitting room window are testament to that – they have been burnt by frost but even now stand at a majestic 10ft high. If you are a gardener you roll with the weather."

He offers the following design tips to gardeners who want their garden to look good, whatever the weather:

- Keep the overall design simple. When you're making a plan, use a few sweeping lines to lead the eye from the viewing point, which is often the kitchen window, right down to the back of your plot.

- Turn your lawn into a welcoming green wide pathway, which almost acts as an arrow, drawing the eye or the visitor on a journey.

- Keep the planting simple. Mass plant low-growing shrubs such as dwarf purple berberis for colour or clouds of Pittosporum tobira 'Nanum'

■ If your garden is extremely small, shaded or just damp, give up on a lawn altogether. It's not going to repay any maintenance and you will spend years and fortunes bemoaning the brown patches and invasion of weeds and moss. Dig it up and replace it with a top-quality artificial turf. For a top-of-the-range brand, try Easigrass

■ Consider what your specimen will look like all year round, not only when covered in foliage or in flower. If you're planting a tree, why not try a multi-stemmed birch?

■ Pay attention to a few detailed areas. Surprise and delight by framing your front door with a wonderful display of massed colour in pots. For instance, a mass of flowering cyclamen crammed into a 'long Tom' terracotta urn looks special and draws attention from less well tended parts of the garden.

■ See Diarmuid Gavin live at BBC Gardeners' World Live which runs from June 12-16 at the NEC, Birmingham. For more information or to book tickets, visit www.bbcgardenersworldlive.com or call 0844 581 1340.

Barrett, Gage seal play-off triumph

HAVERHILL'S Tolly Cobbold Cup team needed a play-off to win their home match against The Suffolk.

The hosts were lying two shots down at lunch but fought back in the afternoon singles.

Turner & Mayers' match was vital as, standing on the 16th tee, they needed to win the next two holes to keep the match alive.

They duly did this, and a half on the last made the overall scoreline all square.

Barrett and Gage faced the challenge of a play-off. Barrett kept his nerve and hit a scorching shot up the first, leaving Gage just 90 yards to the green, which he duly reached using his sand iron.

The Suffolk pair's tee shot found the trees and they were not on the green after three. When Barrett's putt was lagged up to stone dead, The Suffolk conceded the hole.

Results (Haverhill first) – Morning: Dave Mayers and Scott Turner won 2 up against Phil Southgate and Bob Bonney; Mark Stanton and Pete McLennan lost 3 down against Mick Turner and Neil Bradley; Derek Thomas and Simon Cousins lost 2 down against Gary Turner and Michael Leather; Mark Barrett and Andy Gage won 1 up against Barry Taylor and Stuart Kerr. Afternoon:

Mark Barrett and Andy Gage won 2 up against Phil Southgate and Bob Bonney; Mark Stanton and Pete McLennan halved with Mick Turner and Neil Bradley; Del Thomas and Simon Cousins lost 1 down to Gary Turner and Michael Leather; Dave Mayers and Scott Turner won 1 up against Barry Taylor and Stuart Kerr.

Haverhill are at home to Bungay in the next round.

■ A superb morning session set up Haverhill for a 9½-8½ win in their Curry Cup clash at home to Colchester.

The hosts won every match before lunch, meaning they had enough to stage off a comeback by the visitors in the afternoon singles.

Results (Haverhill first) – Morning: Michael Perrett and David Perrett won 6&5 against Bill Eke and Tim Logan; Jack Bligh and Paul Bartlett won 5&4 against John Redden and Stuart Sharman; Russell Palmer and Matthew Farlie won 4&3 against Andy Smith and Andrew Smith; Terry Lyons and David Mayers won 4&2 against Lorrie Austin and Kevin Prince; Graham Ashcroft and Russell Gitty won 4&2 against Chris Doyle and Steve Sheffield; Andy Gage and Gary Webb won 2&1 against Paul French and Dave Humberstone. Afternoon: David Perrett halved with Bill Eke; Michael Perrett won 3&2 against Andy Smith; Paul Bartlett lost 2 down against John Redden; Jack Bligh won 6&5 against Tim Logan; Matthew Farlie lost 3&1 against Stuart Sharman; Russell Palmer halved against Andrew Smith; David Mayers lost 5&4 against Chris Doyle; Andy Gage halved against Dave Humberstone; Terry Lyons lost 1 down against Paul French; Graham Ashcroft lost 4&3 against Steve Sheffield; Russell Gitty lost 8&6 against Lorrie Austin; Gary Webb lost 1 down against Kevin Prince.

Haverhill have been drawn away to Stoke by Nayland in the next round on June 9.

■ Simon Cousins, Michael Frere, Don Humphries and John Goddard scored 50 points to claim victory in the seniors' Wakeman Trophy, in memory of Alan Wakeman and played as a stableford waltz over 10 holes. Runners-up were Dennis Harkness, Bill Lancee and Ernie Tong with 49 points.

■ Haverhill Ladies won their friendly against Bury St Edmunds 2½-1½ despite play being stopped after 11 holes because of lightning.

■ Sheila Price won the ladies' Midweek Stableford with 31 points, one ahead of Doreen Darby, with Jackie Condon a further shot back in third. Condon took the Saturday Stableford with 34 points, with Price second on 32 and Gerrie Wheatley third on 31.

Youngs' blast for batsmen

For breaking sports news, visit cambridge-news.co.uk/sport

Magnificent seven: Teenage spinner Will Bailey is congratulated on his spell of 7 for 48 by Haverhill III captain Jon Watkin.

CP

SIMON Youngs could not hide his disappointment after Haverhill suffered a four-wicket defeat at Elmstead Grasshoppers in Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One.

The captain blamed poor shot selection from some of his batsmen for the loss and he is expecting much better when they visit second-placed Mistley on Saturday.

"They were better than us on the day, but our batting was poor and we were 30 to 40 short of what would have been a decent score," said Youngs. "There was poor shot selection by a few of the lads, but we must look forward, not back, so I expect a reaction next week."

A 49-run partnership between Nigel Brunning (31) and Dan Poole (20) helped Haverhill to recover from 86 for 7 to 151 all out.

But Amit Gupta's 3 for 40 could not prevent Elmstead reaching 155 for 6.

In Division 8V, 15-year-old spinner Will Bailey was thrilled after his excellent 7 for 48 helped Haverhill III beat Stowmarket II by 15 runs.

Ben Wilkins fired an unbeaten 75 in Haverhill's total of 206 before Bailey's exceptional 11-over spell pegged back Stowmarket after the visitors had made a good start to their reply.

Weston Colville lost by 18 runs against Histon in the Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League, Division Two.

Matt Daniels was the best Weston Colville bowler with 4 for 26 as Histon were all out for 172.

But Colville were themselves dismissed for 154, Adam Curtis the highest scorer with 36 runs.

In the CCA Senior League, Division One, Horseheath went down by six wickets at Cambridge St Giles.

Martin Giles hit 45 and Gary Ellis 41 in Horseheath's 192 for 8.

But St Giles opener Phil Rennis blasted an unbeaten 107 to steer his side home to 197 for 4. Ellis took 2 for 57.

We won the cup: Thurlow under-16s celebrate. Below: Haverhill Rovers under-14 girls.

CP

Burr's the cup hero with treble

MITCHELL Burr's hat-trick helped Thurlow under-16s edge out Needingworth 5-4 after extra time to win the Hillsborough Cup.

Thurlow stormed in to a 3-0 lead by half time with Burr scoring the opener and Luke Stearn grabbing the other two.

But Needingworth ran riot in the second half, making it 3-3 and taking the game to extra time.

Callum Williamson sent Burr clear to beat the keeper and restore Thurlow's lead, and he completed his treble in the second extra period.

A stunning late strike from Needingworth was not enough as Thurlow saw out the match.

Burr was man of the match, and the team wishes to thanks sponsors Smart Fish Bar.

■ Wickhambrook under-17s finished their season with a 4-2 win over Huntingdon Rowdies in Cambridge & District Colts League, Division 17A.

Sam Clayton, Harry Willett and James Percy (2) scored, while man of the match was Jordan Cowdrey.

■ Haverhill Rovers under-14

girls' last game of the season ended in a 3-2 win against Sawston, with goals from Sian Tatum (2) and Bethany Knight.

■ Champions Hunton Hawks rounded off their Cambs Mini League, Division 11E campaign with a 2-2 draw at home to Great Bardfield with efforts from Elijah Rice and Keaton Cowling.

■ Lloyd Blackburn helped Aztecs White finish their Division 9D season with a 100 per cent record with his four-goal salvo in an 8-1 success at Haverhill White.

Jordan Chipps notched a double, with Freddie Hounscome and Bart Purser also netting.

■ Clare Town are looking for first-team and reserve-team managers to take charge of their Cambs League teams next season. The firsts are in Division 1A and the reserves in 5A.

For more information, please contact Tom Pilling at tom.pilling@sky.com.

Both teams also need new players for the coming season, with training to begin in mid-July.

The club's annual meeting is on Tuesday July 2 at 7pm.

Paffett fumes as his podium position is snatched away

A FURIOUS Gary Paffett blasted race officials following an "unfair" penalty that denied him a superb podium finish at Sunday's DTM race at Brands Hatch.

The Haverhill driver looked to have produced the drive of the weekend with a superb effort that took him from 11th on the grid to third place.

But just moments after pulling into parc ferme he was given a five-second penalty for not slowing down enough at yellow flags and as a result finished in sixth place.

"How it took them so long to decide on the penalty I don't know," he said.

"If it was that clear to them they should have decided straight away and I should have had the opportunity to lose it on track and gain back some positions.

"I didn't have that opportunity, which is very unfair. The problem is I didn't know about the penalty. I could have gone quicker to gain the time back to effectively keep my position."

There were two incidents that brought yellow flags out, one on lap 66 when Augusto Farfus stopped his BMW at the side of the track at the beginning of the start-finish straight, and again on lap 89 after Edoardo Mortara crashed his Audi at McLaren.

In either case, Paffett believes there was enough time for the penalty to have been issued during the race.

"If it was clear enough they should have done it on track," he said. "It's frustrating. To work so hard to get on the podium and then have it taken away for something stupid is really disappointing."

Under the DTM rules, drivers must slow down under yellow flags and post a lap time at least five-tenths of a second slower than the stewards' reference lap.

Failure to do so results in a penalty, though the drivers themselves had previously aired their grievances about it.

It was little consolation to Paffett, but his Euronics Mercedes C-Coupe was quick in race trim and he and the team made the best of the strategic opportunities offered by the use of an option tyre and DRS.

After a poor qualifying session, where Paffett's 11th place was the best of the Mercedes team, the car's race pace was a nice surprise. But that feeling was soured by the post-race drama.

"We were just aiming for seventh or eighth to get a few points," added Paffett.

"To get sixth is good, but under the circumstances it was terrible because we should have been third."

Paffett is now fourth in the drivers' standings with 20 points, nine adrift of championship leader Mike Rockenfeller.

Brands battle: Gary Paffett (left) jostles for position with his Audi and BMW rivals. Inset: With McLaren team-mate and F1 driver Jenson Button in the paddock.

DEAN Greygoose is relishing the challenge of first team management after taking on the role of Haverhill Rovers boss.

With previous jobs including assistant manager to John Beck at Histon and to Alan Alsop at Ely City, Greygoose is looking forward to taking on the extra responsibility of looking after first team affairs himself.

He left his role as goalkeeping coach at Kettering Town early in the 2012/13 season and it was during regular goalkeeping sessions at Haverhill where he heard about the possibility of taking on the manager's role.

He will succeed Kieron Hammatt who was sacked as Rovers boss just two months after being appointed. "I'm really happy to have got the job," said Greygoose.

"It's a really good challenge. Haverhill is a club that's ready to go places and there are a lot of good people working hard behind the scenes."

With both sons Sean and Jamie having played for Rovers, it was not hard to feel a connection with the club. And Greygoose is confident he can help them fulfil their potential in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division.

Greygoose up for Rovers challenge

"There's a bit of pressure but it's something I really enjoy," continued Greygoose, who also does some goalkeeping coaching at Ipswich Town's academy.

"It's going to be a lot of hard work and we haven't got a massive budget. There are some areas of the squad that need to be strengthened but I'll look at the current squad first and give them a chance."
